In this summer issue of our newsletter from the Hatch Library to the Bay Path community, we highlight some new audio books on CD for your vacation and travel reading. We’re still open 7 days a week through the summer, and you can continue to visit us online 24/7.

Although the Traditional students have long since left campus, One Day students are just beginning their final spring session, and many graduate students are continuing their studies through the summer months, so we also touch on some reference and electronic information resources of particular interest to you.

My staff and I hope you all get a chance for some rest and relaxation this summer, and, as always, we welcome your feedback, questions, and comments.

NEW AUDIOBOOKS—PERFECT FOR ROADTRIPS!

And the Mountains Echoed, by Khaled Hosseini - The story of two motherless Afghan siblings, Pari and Abdullah, and its ripple effect.

The Supremes at Earl’s All-You-Can-Eat, by Edward Kelsey Moore - A wonderful story chronicling the thirty year relationship between three best friends.

The Hit, by David Baldacci - Another page turner, with returning characters from The Innocent. A winner.

The Future: Six Drivers of Global Change, by Al Gore - a frank and clear-eyed assessment of the emerging forces that are reshaping our world.

NEW CITATION TOOL

When it’s time to create a references or works cited list, do you have a favorite website that helps you with that, or even a few different websites? It seems like citation help keeps getting friendlier, and here’s a new one that has been added to the Hatch Library collection: EasyBib! Yes, it’s true that EasyBib will create wonderful MLA and APA format citations for you, but with the Hatch subscription, you now have access to all of the other major styles as well.

To set up an account, just go to EasyBib.com and click on “Register” in the upper right corner of the screen.

You’re going to love the feature that allows you to turn your citation into a References or Works Cited page in Microsoft Word! And if you’re an iPad user, there’s even a free EasyBib app!
UPDATE II: Catalog Migration Project

We continue to work on transitioning more of our electronic resources to our cloud-based online catalog and discovery tool.

You’re all familiar by now with our online catalog, which includes access to most of our article databases as well. The next big change is the look of our discovery tools.

The Journal and E-Book Linker is the same as the A to Z list found in the online catalog search box. The article linker, the device you use in our research databases to discover if we have full text access to an article in a different database, looks the same in the database but the search results look very different.

Here’s an example of a results page with access to a full text link. Note the “Links to this publication” area:
